Name of subject – Health and Social care

Subject vision

Health and social care is a vocational subject opening up career opportunities in the biggest job sector in the UK. Our vision is to equip our students with the knowledge and skills needed to enter this diverse workforce.

Health and Social Care is a holistic subject incorporating the study of mental, physical and social well-being within our communities. We will, through our teaching, provide you with outstanding interpersonal skills. Health and social care will teach you to reach judgements, evaluate ideas and clearly articulate your views through lessons, wider reading and research. You will learn to apply knowledge to real contexts.

Studying this subject will allow you to investigate the range of services and professionals who work with individuals across all life stages.

We aim to create a culture that encompasses empathy and excellence, making a difference where it matters!
